PREFACE.

Veneration for ancestors ranks high among virtues in all ages and climes. The Penates or household gods which were cherished and transmitted from generation to generation by the ancient Romans, served a good purpose, as they called to mind the names and deeds of honored forefathers. With great reverence those images were handled and looked upon by the children, and while the fathers and mothers rehearsed the story of the noble lives of the heroic dead, the hearts of the youthful listeners swelled with virtuous and valorous resolves.

The simple fact that one has had a line of ancestors, or that he can repeat their names or tell their nationality, is not worth investigating or mentioning. From curiosity, or fashion, or a desire to join some order dependent on one's lineage, the work of ancestry hunting is sometimes overdone. Not long since a witless fellow was so very successful in his ancestral researches that, according to his own account, he traced his pedigree in America to the year 1359!

Some one has said: "The question is not how far we may trace the line of our ancestors, or whether they were Dutchmen, or Puritans, or Huguenots, or Cavaliers; but were they honest, brave and true? did they work or steal? were they settlers or fighting men? and when these questions begin to be answered we shall all be in favor of confining our researches to a limited number of generations.

Some of the foregoing questions, if applied to our ancestors find answer in this book:

The descendants of William Warriner have furnished soldiers for all the American wars, from the Colonial times to the present, and have been well represented among the pastors of several denominations, Congregational, Presbyterian, Episcopal, Baptist and Methodist. Thus the satisfaction which the author of this book has found and hopes to share with those who will read the results of his researches, springs chiefly from the sturdy, stalwart character of the New England sires, contributing high incentives to those who follow in their steps.

In the midst of his labor in preparing this work he has been conscious of a desire to perform a real service which not one in ten thousand would care to undertake. The thought that he might be remembered as a benefactor by the Warriners of future generations has ofttimes prevented his giving up in complete discouragement. Some of the difficulties have arisen from a surprising want of knowledge on the part of those from whom information was sought; and still more disheartening has been the strange indifference which a few have shown, even amounting to persistent failures to reply to letters asking for facts which they alone could supply.

But the helps have been far more than the hindrances. The great majority of the many hundred letters written have received prompt and helpful replies. Officers and clerks in charge of valuable records have shown uniform courtesy and kindness. A few relatives have contributed to the expense of traveling, etc., which the extended researches of the author have incurred. The following are some of the authorities which have been consulted with thoroughness, and from which many facts have been obtained:

Great pains have been taken to secure accuracy, but it would be quite impossible to avoid all errors in collecting such a multiplicity of dates and proper names from such a variety of sources; hence, in that respect especially, the author craves the kind indulgence of his friends.

Attention is called to the unlooked for success achieved in the matter of illustrations. They certainly add much to the value of the book.

Now let all who belong to "the Warriner family of New England origin" take note that they need be strangers no more. With this volume in hand any one of them may trace his lineage to William Warriner, of Springfield, and determine in a very few minutes the nearness or remoteness of his kinship to any other member of the Warriner family.

The supreme good that such books may accomplish is the turning of our thoughts from the past to the future, and our learning the value of living for the welfare of those who are coming after us. In a short time our names will be written among the ancestors, and the harvests from our seed-sowing will be gathered by the generations yet unborn.

E. W.

Genealogy of the Warriner Family.

The original ancestor of the New England Warriners joined the settlers of Springfield, Mass., in 1638. His birthplace and ancestry are unknown.[1] That England was the land of his nativity is probable beyond all doubt. He seems to have been one of the earliest of that name of whom history or tradition gives us any account. Tradition says that William Warriner, about the year 1600, eloped from Lincolnshire, England, with Lady Clifford (?), daughter of Lord Howe, or Howard, an English admiral, and made his escape — with other members of the family, who naturally would want to get out of the way of the offended and insulted nobleman — into Yorkshire. While crossing a river one or two of the Warriners were drowned. William and another were saved, also the lady. And the tradition further states that William settled in Yorkshire.

The English parish records of that period mention several Warriners, one of whom in particular bears the name William. The parish records, copied in the foot-note, establish a strong probability that the William Warriner mentioned many times in the Canterbury Cathedral register, who had children christened in that church from 1601 to 1614, who buried several children in the Canterbury churchyard, whose wife, Alice, was buried there in 1619, and of whom all records in the books of Canterbury Cathedral cease at that time, is the same William Warriner who eloped from Lincolnshire about 1600 with Lady (Alice) Clifford (?), and that he is the identical William Warriner who appeared among the pioneers of Springfield, Mass., in 1638. If this be the case, he was probably a widower, at least fifty-seven years of age when he married Joanna Scant in 1639, and about ninety- four when he died in 1676. And this is altogether credible, for some of his descendants have lived beyond that age.* There is here no discrepancy as to Canterbury Cathedral in the county of Kent from Yorkshire, the traditional home of William Warriner. But this fact presents no difficulty if we locate his home in both places at different periods. The Cathedral records show that for about twenty years there were two Warriners, presumably brothers, William and Matthew, living in or near Canterbury; and William is conspicuous by his absence after 1619, while Matthew remains until his death in 1643. The most natural supposition is that, after his wife's death, William Warriner left the county of Kent, and, after residing nearly a score of years in Yorkshire, emigrated to New England in 1638.

If there were any records or traditions concerning the religious tenets or church connections of William Warriner while he resided in Springfield, it would be easier to determine his identity and his antecedents. On the theory that he was the William Warriner of Canterbury Cathedral record, the baptism of his children may have been chiefly out of deference to his wife's attachment to the Church of England, or he may have been a strong churchman at that time and a dissenter afterwards. He had no prominence in church affairs in Springfield.

Several persons have alluded to traditions of the Welsh origin of the name and family, but in this connection no authority seems to have been found for anything definite as to localities or dates.*

The foregoing observations are not claimed to be conclusive. Until further facts are brought to light it will be impossible to positively know the antecedents of William Warriner. The name seems to have been spelled Warrener and Warriner interchangeably from the first. The word "Warrener" means the owner of a warren — a warren being a rabbit park, and sometimes a hunting reserve of large extent. It is said to have been applied by way of distinction, sometimes, to the owner of such lands. The first Warrener, therefore, may have been a person of privilege; that is, one who was entitled to convert his lands into a game preserve, and given the exclusive privilege of hunting on them.

There is little in the history of the British people to distinguish the family name. One man, at least (of the name of

* Rev. E. A. Warriner heard his father say that the name was originally spelled Warrinné, and was first applied to some person or persons in Wales. Some one with time and taste for the necessary research may yet reconcile what seems unreconcilable to us.

Warrener was celebrated as a warrior among the cavaliers. In a poetic volume written about 1600, called "Songs of the Cavaliers and Roundheads," is a poem entitled 'Wigan's Retreat," the first stanza of which is:

> "Hurrah! for the trumpeter blowing his best,
> Blood on his feather and blood on his crest;
> Here was old Warrener, trusty as steel,
> Fitting a crimson spur fast to his heel."

The career of Rev. William Warrener, of England, has made the name honorable in the annals of the church. He was received by John Wesley as a traveling preacher in 1779. After laboring in Great Britain for some years he went as missionary to the West Indies. Warrener, Hammet and Clark, in company with Dr. Coke, embarked September 24, 1786, for Nova Scotia to reinforce the Methodist missionaries there. They were a month in reaching the mid seas. There on the 24th of October, their ship sprang aleak. Three days later a most terrific storm arose, which continued until the middle of December, dismantled the ship and drove her with bare spars and in a sinking condition to a grateful though unexpected haven, in Antigua, on the Feast of the Nativity, a day of good omen to those islands of the west. There William Warrener remained and spent eleven years zealously and successfully ministering the Gospel to the negro slaves, being the first of the English preachers regularly appointed to that work. In 1779 he returned to England, and continued as a regular itinerant till 1818. After that, for a few years, he was a supernumerary supply. He died at his home in Leeds, November 27, 1825, in the 75th year of his age, "triumphing gloriously in death."*

* Condensed from Ethridge's Life of Coke and Minutes of Conferences, Vol. VI, p. 108. His travels are more definitely traced in the following record of appointments: 1779, Gainsboro circuit; 1780, Gainsboro cir., with George Shadford and others; 1781, Gainsboro cir. again; 1782, Aberdeen cir.; 1783, Dundee cir.; 1784, Berwick cir.; 1785, Brecon cir.; 1786, William Warriner, the New England ancestor, was made a freeman, or voter, in 1638. Under the first charter of the Massachusetts Colony none were regarded as freemen, or members of the body politic, except such as were admitted by the General Court and took the oath of allegiance to the government here established. This custom continued in existence until by the second charter the colony was transferred into a province.*

We learn from the Springfield records that William Warriner was married to Joanna Scant in 1639.† The town clerk made the following record of her death: "Johanna, wife of Wm. Warriner, dyed ye 7th of ye 12th mon. 1660." On October 2, 1661, he married Elizabeth, widow of Luke Hitchcock, of Wethersfield, Conn.‡ She was the mother of Hannah, John and Luke Hitchcock. She survived Mr. Warriner and became the third wife of Joseph Baldwin, of Hadley.§

This Warriner seems to have been, previous to his marriage in 1639, the only person of the name residing in New England.

Harper; 1791, St. Christopher's; 1792, ditto, with Richard Pattison; 1793, ditto, with John Baxter; 1794, 1795, ditto, with John Baxter and others; 1796-1798, ; 1799, 1800, Buddington, York Dist.; 1801, 1802, Sunderland cir., Grimsby Dist.; 1803, Alnwick and Berwick cir.; 1804, Stockton cir.; 1805, Darlington cir.; 1806, Malton cir., York Dist.

His wife is mentioned in the Minutes for several years after 1800, also his daughter, Ann, who was allowed eight pounds eight shillings from the fund for the education of preachers' daughters in Kingswood school.

* The freeman's oath may be seen in New England Historican and Genealogical Register, Vol. II, p. 89.

† Boldwood reads the name Searl, and thinks she was the daughter of John Searl. I have looked at the original record carefully. The name is quite plainly written "Scant" — F. W.

‡ The town records show that they were married in Hadley.

§ Mr. Baldwin died Nov. 2, 1684, and she died Apr. 25, 1696.

One Ralph Warriner, who is once mentioned in the Old Colony Records, may have been brother to William. He seems to have been a transient person and not an inhabitant. At any rate no record in New England seems to contain any further mention of him.* There was a Ralph Warriner, whose name appeared in the records of Virginia about that time.†

In violation of a law made in 1640, William Warriner sold his canoe to some party outside the "plantation," and was fined therefor.‡ In 1642 a second division of the plantation was made, and "Will: Warriner," as one of the "maryed psons," had "10 rod bredth." Those having the "biggest familys" had "12 rod to begin upward at ye edge of ye hill" (Chestnut street). In casting lots for land he obtained several acres.

In 1664 Wm. Pynchon was taxed for purchase money to pay the Indians for land, 10 shillings. Another similar tax on 40½ acres, owned by "Will: Warrener," was 11 shillings 2 pence. "Wm. Warrinar" had one acre in lot 17, as part of the land "on ye Mile River, beginning lowermost on ye southeast branch, and so going up to ye little brooke, and then upward to ye —— 16 acres, and so on to ye north branch of ye upper end, and then come downward, and lastly to ye lake or pond."§

He owned a considerable part of what is now the heart of Springfield. His house stood near the spot where the old court-house now stands, on the north side of First Congregational church, in front of Court Square.

This venerable ancestor of all the New England Warriners died in Springfield, Mass., June 2, 1676, age not known. He was among the original white settlers of that part of Massa-

Here begins an enumeration of all the descendants of William Warriner, of Springfield, Mass., in the male line, or under the family name.

1 William Warriner.

Children of William Warriner (1):
(All three born in Springfield.)*

* If there were more than three children, there is no record of the fact. One person bearing the name has puzzled the genealogists. There is mention of the marriage of Elizabeth Warrinor to John Strong in 1664. She was his second wife. She died June 7, 1686, ten years after the death of William Warriner, and is not mentioned in the administration of his estate. She was baptized and admitted into Westfield Church in August, 1666. The children of John and Elizabeth (War-

Before going thither they had children born to them, namely, John, Hannah and Thomas. Surviving Mr. Noble, who died Jan. 20, 1704, she was married Jan. 24, 1705, to Dea. Medad Pomeroy, and died prior to May 12, 1721.‡
4. Joseph, born Feb. 6, 1645.

2 Dea. James Warriner, son of William (1) and Joanna, was born in Springfield, Mass., Nov. 21, 1640. He was among the inhabitants of Springfield who took the oath of allegiance, Dec. 3, 1678. He married in Springfield, March 31, 1664, Elizabeth, daughter of Joseph Baldwin, the first settler of Milford, Mass.§ She died Apr. 24, 1687, and he married, on July 10, 1689, Sarah, daughter of Alexander Alvord. She died May 16, 1704, age 44, and he married, on the 29th of December following, Mary, widow of Benjamin Stebbins, of Spring-rinor) Strong were John, born 1665; Jacob, born 1673; Joseph, born 1678.

This Elizabeth Warriner might have been a daughter of William by a second marriage in England, but in that case she would have appeared as one of his heirs after his death. It has been presumed that she was his sister; but she was evidently too young at the time of her marriage to have a brother 84 years of age, as our reckoning makes him to have been at that time. Savage suggests that the name should have been written "Warner." Some cases have occurred of the confounding of these two names in the early records.

field, Mr. Warriner being her third husband. His name appears on the list of soldiers in King Philip's War.*

He was a deacon in the First Congregational Church, as stated in the Historical Address by Judge Morris, page 27. It is well known that Springfield was settled by a religious community. The earliest ministers were George Moxom, Wm. Hosford, Wm. Thompson, Samuel Hooker and Peletiah Glover. Mr. Moxom and Mr. Glover were settled pastors. Daniel Brewer followed Mr. Glover as settled pastor, and during his ministry Dea. James Warriner died. Our picture represents the third building erected by the First Congregational Church of Springfield. The following interest-

MEETING HOUSE IN SPRINGFIELD IN WHICH THE WARRINERS WORSHIPED FOR SEVENTY YEARS.

* Pynchon's Diary says: "Sept. 20, 1688, Samuel Phelps and William Randall crossing this evening from the Bay & informing me yt ye Inhabitants of Quabaug were in some danger, they being weak and few. * * * Sept. 21, I accordingly sent to their relief & to scout out & to make fortifications there these men, viz.: Henry Gilbert to command, John Hitchcock, James Warriner, Thos. Gilbert, Eben Parsons, Samuel Parsons. These returned the 27th, so they were in service seven days apiece."

From the Council Records, Aug. 1, 1693, it appears that Thomas Gilbert, of Brookfield, John Hitchcock, James Warriner and Samuel Parsons, of Springfield, were allowed from the State treasury "for services at Quabaug 10 shillings apiece." History of North Brookfield, Mass., p. 153.

ing statements are recorded in Hon. Henry Morris' Historical Address, delivered in 1875: "In the first meeting house, erected in 1645, about where the large elm stands, near the southeasterly corner of Court Square, the first pastor met his people as they assembled on the Sabbath at the sound of the drum, and proclaimed to them the words of eternal life. This meeting house was forty feet long and twenty-five feet wide, and faced south on the one-rod road leading to the training-field and burial ground, since made wider and called Elm street. It had two large windows on each side, and one smaller one at each end; one large door on the southerly side, and two smaller ones. It had a shingled roof — a rare thing in that day — and two turrets, one designed for a bell, the other for a watch tower. * * * Soon after the destruction of the town by the Indians in 1675, the original meeting-house, which had escaped the flames, was taken down and a larger and more commodious structure erected further west, mostly, if not wholly, within the limits of what is now Court Square, very near its southwestern angle. It was built in 1677. * * * Again the parish passed a vote in Apr., 1749, to built a new meeting house. It was erected the same year or the year following, so far as to be ready for use, although not entirely finished until 1752. It was 60 feet long by 46 wide, and 26 feet high between joints. This house, the third built, was the immediate predecessor of the present meeting house and stood directly east of the ground now occupied. The principal entrance was on the east side, but there was also an entrance through the tower. Some of the older inhabitants remember well this house with its high pulpit and square pews. * * * There are some things in our early parochial history which appear strange to our modern ideas. One of these is the practice that from the time of the erection of the first meeting house down to the present one seems to have prevailed, of a periodical assignment of seats to the congregation. Thus, in 1664, when the town and parish were identical, a vote of this kind is recorded: 'Dec. 30, 1664. It is ordered yt the Selectmen and Deacon or deacons shall from tyme to tyme seate persons in ye meeting house either higher or lower according as in their sound discretion they shall judge most meete.' A month later, in January, 1663, is found recorded an order of the selectmen, as follows: 'For as much as order is beautiful & especially in ye house of God & ye want thereof is displeasing to God & breeds disturbance among men — And whereas it doth appear yt divers young persons and sometimes others, not withstanding their being called upon Doe yet neglect to attend unto such order, as is prescribed them either for their sitting in ye meeting house, or for their reforming from disorders in & about ye meeting house in tyme of God's Publike worship — It is therefore hereby ordered that whosoever of this Towneship shall not, from tyme to tyme to their sittings in ye meeting house, submit themselves to the ordering of ye Selectmen & Deasons, or such as are empowered to seate & order persons in ye meeting house — All such persons as shall refuse or neglect to attend unto order as aforesaid shall forfeite as is herein after expressed, viz.: Hee or shee that shall not take his or her seate ordered ym fro tyme to tyme but shall in ye days or tymes of God's Publike worship Goe into & abide in any other seate, appointed for some other, Such disorderly person or persons for ye first offence shall forfeit three shillings four pence to ye towne's-treasury.' By the same authority it was ordered that the seat formerly called the guard seat should be for smaller boys to set in 'that they might be more in sight of ye congregation.' In this seat none were permitted to sit 'above ye age of 14 or 15 yeares.' It appears that in the earlier period of our parochial history, care was taken that the men and women should be seated in separate seats." In the days of Dea. James Warriner and long after, some of these customs prevailed.

The records show that he was the first grantor of a deed in Hampden county by the name of Warriner.

The records say he was made a freeman in 1674. He participated in a great fight with the Indians at The Falls (Squakboag), May 19, 1676;* took the oath of allegiance Feb. 8, 1679, and was chosen tithing man that same year.

His name appears prominently in the history of Northfield.†

* Enfield records say that, April 7, 1687, Joseph Warriner, a settler of Enfield is assigned by the committee a lot. "Next Benjamin Jones lies the house lot of Joseph Warriner 10 rods in breadth and in length from the street on the west bank 160 rods easterly." He was possessed of other lots later; for example, one at Sehautuck river, also a parcel of meadow on Buckham brook. Enfield records contain the following, also, dated 1689: "Granted to Joseph Warriner as he is admitted an Inhabitant. An allotment 40 acres field Land 4 acres meadow and 10 acres house lot, that same House lot on the East side of the street, which James Harwood leaves, he the sd Warriner cuming to the place and continuing there 7 years, Defraying all charges and submitting to all the orders of the place — then all is granted to him, his heirs and Assigns forever."

Among the interesting documents is a record of sale of lands by Rowland Thomas to James Warriner Dec. 11, 1697. "In the County of West Hampshire within his majestie's Province of the Massachusetts Bay of New England For good Causes and valuable Consideration, Especially; for and in Consideration of the full, and Just sum of Sixty pounds, In Currant money of New England; to him in hand paid or assured to be paid before the Ensealing and delivering of these presents, By James Warriner Junr of the aforesd Springfield in the Province of the Massachusetts Bay, in New England.

* We hear nothing further from this John. He may have died young. A private record states that John Warriner (122) was killed in the French War. In that statement, more than likely, John is mistaken for Jonathan (15).

35. Elizabeth, born Dec. 23, 1697. In this birth record the town clerk spelled the name "Warryner."
36. Thankful, born Feb. 7, 1699-1700; married on Dec. 31, 1722, to John Sikes.
37. Thomas, born Dec. 3, 1703. "Thomas Warriner, of Springfield, died —— day of June, 1740." Administrators on his estate were his brother and sister, "James Warriner and Elizabeth Warriner, both of Springfield."

8 William Warriner, son of James (2) and Elizabeth, was born in Springfield, Mass., Jan. 6, 1672; married in Springfield, Feb. 3, 1697, Elizabeth Weller,* daughter of John and Mary (Alvord) Weller, and granddaughter of Richard and Ann (Wilson) Weller. She died, it is presumed, before 1731, for in that year, Oct. 26, "Wm. Warriner, of Springfield," married Rebecca Lamb.

She was daughter of Samuel and Hannah (Stiles) Bliss, of Springfield, Mass. The will of "Joseph Warriner, of Springfield," is dated March 18, 1742, and provides as follows: To Hannah his "well beloved wife" the use and improvement movable estate, so long as she remains his widow; ditto one room in dwelling, etc.; to son, Joseph Warriner, real estate in Springfield, etc.; to daughter Hannah, and daughter Lydia, each fifty-five pounds, including what had been already given. * Hezekiah Porter, of Hadley, filed intentions of marriage to Hannah Warriner, of Springfield, date not given.

† The name of Samuel Warriner appears, Apr. 7, 1707, on a list of 73 landholders in the part of Springfield lying west of the Connecticut river, signing a petition to the town authorities. This man may have been Samuel Warriner (11), but most likely another person of the same name.

Springfield has records concerning one Samuel Warriner, which evidently do not belong to the subject of the present sketch, nor to any other of the name known to have descended from William Warriner. In 1720 Samuel Warriner is named in a list of petitioners, like those mentioned above. This request was granted. The record is as follows: "June ye 6th 1720. Hear followeth an Account of the Divideing of the land given to the Inhabitants of the Precinct by the Town. And first the land on the hill. . . . And then there is twenty Rods for the highway. And the next lot to the highway is to Samll Warriner, which is in Number the eighth lot. Quantity ten acres. Length 80 Rods. Bredth 20 Rods, bounded on the highway South." (See N. E. Hist. & Gen. Reg., Vol. XXIX, p. 289.)

On May 20, 1720, Samuel Warriner drew lots for land in Abigail Day in the same town, Feb. 18, 1703. His death occurred on March 30, 1713.* Letters of administration on his estate were granted to Abigail Warriner, his widow, on May 23, 1713. The inventory mentions house, land, cattle, gun, sword, ammunition, snow shoes, saddle, pillion, bridle, etc.

On Dec. 14, 1717, intentions of marriage of Thomas Miller to Widow Abigail Warriner were recorded in Springfield.

Springfield. This same Samuel Warriner is in all probability mentioned in the following record: "Desire, daughter of Samuel and Sarah Warriner, was born Sept. 8, 1716." — Springfield Town Records.

We learn from the same source that Samuel Warriner died in Springfield, March 16, 1750.

It will be observed that the dates in the foregoing are all subsequent to the death of Samuel Warriner (11). From these records it may be inferred that there was in Springfield, in the first half of the eighteenth century, a Samuel Warriner, whose birth and marriage occurred elsewhere, and hence are not recorded in Springfield; whose wife was named Sarah; whose daughter was named Desire, and whose death took place in Springfield in the year 1750.

others, signed a protest or petition to the justices of Hampshire county against the settlement of an illegal ecclesiastical council.* He and twenty-two others recorded a protest against the support of Mr. Breck, the chosen pastor, on the ground that he was not an orthodox minister.†

His will is the oldest made by a Warriner, so far as the Hampshire county records show. It is dated "21 Jan. 1736, in the 4th year of the reign of George II." The following are some of its provisions: "In the name of God Amen. I Ebenezer Warriner, of Springfield, in the County of Hampshire & Province of Massachusetts Bay in New England yeoman being now old with the consideration of the uncertainty of this mortal life, & the present indisposition of body I labor under, but of sound mind and understanding Do make & ordain this to be my last will & Testamt as follows First I recommend my Soul to Almighty God assured by trusting to the mercy of Christ Jesus for the Pardon of my Sins & Eternal life my body I remit to the earth by a decent Christian burial according to the discretion of my Executrix hereafter named, and as Touching my worldly Estate I give bequeath Devise and dispose of the same in the following manner & form, my debts and funeral Charges first being paid, That is to say

"Impr I give and Bequeath to Johanna Warriner my wife one third part of all my lands," etc.

He directs his son Ebenezer to pay to each of the daughters, Abigail Pease, Mary Cadwell and Elizabeth Stebbins, ten pounds, having given each sixty pounds before, making equal distribution. To David, Johanna, Martha and Rachel he gives seventy pounds each, they to receive the same when twenty-two years of age, or if they should marry sooner, at the time of marriage. The will gives to his son Ebenezer house, barns

The name of "Jona: Warriner" is found on the muster roll of Capt. Timothy Dwight's company at the Block House above Northfield.†

* This statement is taken from the History of Northfield, p. 198. In the same book, page 207, concerning Capt. Kellogg's journal kept during that war, it is said: "The labor it recorded and the daring and endurance of these handfulls of men, thus striking off into the wild forests in the winter, fording bridgeless streams and climbing mountains slippery with ice and blocked up with snow, watching for the curling smoke from the red man's camp fire, and listening for the report of his gun, were a most exciting romance if they had not been a terrible reality. By such vigilance and fidelity and wear of soul and body was our village protected and our valley kept clear of blood."

18 Benjamin Warriner, son of James (2) and Sarah, was born in Springfield, Mass., Apr. 15, 1698; married Mercy Bartlett, having recorded intentions in Springfield Oct. 20, 1726. His time-worn memorial is in the old cemetery in Wilbraham. It is represented in the cut.

24 Ebenezer Warriner, son of Joseph (4) and Mary, was born Jan. 16, 1676; went to Enfield (now included in Connecticut), where his father settled in 1687. He married Elizabeth ———. She died June 6, 1724, and he married Mary Field, Sept. 24, 1725. He was deacon in the Congregational Church. We find him serving as selectman of the town in 1710 and 1723. He seems to have been one of the foremost men in Enfield.*

His father dying in 1752, Ebenezer inherited the home lot, "bounded west with the street, east with the Commons, north with Benj. Jones, south with Edward Kibbe containing 10 acres more or less." He became possessed of land by allotment in 1699, and at several times thereafter. This land was in Enfield, "so lying on the south side of Grape brook, bounded east on the country road by estimation twelve rods wide north on land of Benoni Gains, beginning for the south east corner at a stone which stands on the north side of a gutter west above the deep gutter so called, and by said road running westward to a stone on the west side opposite gutter on the side hill, thence northward to a stone by the mouth of said deep gutter, then northward to land of said Gains, be the same more or less than twenty acres with a house standing thereon."

On Apr. 8, 1760, after Ebenezer Warriner's death, his heirs signed a quit-claim deed with the following preamble: "That whereas our honored father did in his life-time convey unto Ebenezer M'Gregory a certain piece or tract of land in the township of Enfield," etc. This instrument was signed: "Samuel Warriner, David Hale, Elizabeth Her X Mark. She died March 30, 1759, and he married Deborah Wright, of Springfield, on July 10, 1760.

He was chosen selectman of Wilbraham precinct in 1751. His will is dated Springfield, April 29, 1765, 5th year of the reign of George III.† His death occurred a short time after-

If Aaron should die without issue, the aforesaid son, James, was to have a larger part, while his daughter Anny and his granddaughter Mercy (daughter of his son Stephen, deceased) were to have a smaller part of the property intended for Stephen's heirs. To his daughter, Anny Wells, he bequeathed the former possessions of his wife Amy, "saving that I allow to my present wife, Deborah, the use and improvement of a large brass kettle during the time she remains my widow." To daughter Anny and granddaughter Mercy Warriner he gave several tracts of land, Mercy being entitled to receive her portion when eighteen years of age. His son James was named as executor. His wife died Dec. 25, 1764. They left no children. He was one of the first settlers in Wilbraham, moving there in 1734.† It was then called "Outward Commons," or "Springfield Mountains," and was at that time about twenty-five miles square. When that section was established as a separate precinct in 1741 the warrant was issued to Nathaniel Warriner to call the first meeting. He was on the committee of the precinct for the year ensuing, and was chosen collector. At his home the first minister, Rev. Noah Mirrick, was ordained, and some members of the committee were entertained there over night.‡

In 1749, 1753 and 1761 he was on a committee to apply to the town and general court to have Wilbraham set off as a separate town. The appeal was finally successful. He was moderator of many of the precinct meetings, and almost exclu-

When the committee met to decide where to build a church, Deacon Nathaniel Warriner was paid one pound twelve shillings and sixpence for procuring the committee, and two pounds twelve shillings and sixpence "old tenor" for keeping said committee and their horses. He led the singing in the public religious services.* He was deacon of the church from the first, and one of its chief supporters — a staunch defender of the Standing Order. In his will he divided his estate between his church and the public schools. Those two funds are a permanent benefaction.† The parsonage occupied by the Congregational pastors of Wilbraham is "the Nathaniel Warriner parsonage."

He is buried in the old cemetery in Wilbraham. His tombstone is conspicuous — a large slab supported by five pillars, and on which a long inscription is carved. The letters are moss covered and difficult to read.

* When the meeting house was first occupied, the "worthy Rev. Noah Mirrick, with wig and powdered hair, and cue, bands and small clothes, and silk stockings, and shoe buckles of silver, entered the house, the congregation all rising as a token of respect. He read a hymn, then handed the book over the top of the rough pulpit — for there was but one hymn book in the precinct, and that was the minister's — to Deacon Nathaniel Warriner, who named the tune, gave the pitch, read one line of the hymn and commenced singing it; Warner, and Brewer, and Langdon, and Stebbins, Moses, and David, and Hosea, and Huldah, and Jemima, and Ruth followed after, as ability and strength permitted; the deacon, conscientiously and as became the service of God's house, waiting before he gave out another line till the most dilatory had finished." (Stebbins' Centennial of Wilbraham, p. 57.)

† The amount was four hundred pounds, "lawful money," and it was "to be one-half given to the support of the Gospel Ministry, the other half to the use and support of Schools. was born in Springfield, Mass., July 24, 1708. Moses Warriner (probably this one) and Miriam Ferry, of Springfield, had banns recorded in that town, Feb. 24, 1738. There is no record of marriage. If they married she probably died soon, for he married Anne Cooley, of Springfield, having recorded "intentions" Nov. 7, 1741. The History of Connecticut Valley states that he and Benjamin Warriner (79) were among the twenty-two soldiers from Wilbraham precinct in the French War, 1755-1760. He belonged to Capt. John Bancroft's company, Col. Timothy Ruggles' regiment.

The will of "Moses Warriner, of Springfield," is dated March 11, 1762. It declares its author to be in a "languishing state of health, but of sound mind and understanding." It gives to Anne his "well-beloved wife," south half of dwelling house, free use of barn and barn yard; also sufficient of firewood to be provided for her by their son Moses so long as she remains his widow; also third part of land and one-half of movable estate during her natural life. To eldest son, Moses, dwelling house, subject to wife's privileges; also one or two farms. To Noah, third son, a certain amount of land. To sons Samuel, Nathaniel, Abner and Daniel, to be divided as they or their guardians shall agree, land on Brimfield line. To Anne, eldest daughter, 13 pounds 6 shillings 8 pence, when 18 years of age, and the same to Miriam. His wife was named as executrix, and the witnesses were Moses Burt, James Warriner, Jr., and Moses Burt, Jr. Moses Warriner, his eldest son, was to be guardian of minor sons, Abner and David.

Moses Warriner died in Wilbraham and is buried there. The dates of his and his wife's death are inscribed on their tombstones as in the cuts.

† The town clerk of Long Meadow says there is a record to this effect, that Samuel Warriner married Ruth, daughter of Ebenezer Bliss in Long Meadow, on Sept. 6, 1733. This was an error in copying — else there must have been another Samuel Warriner, and another Ruth Bliss, daughter of Ebenezer Bliss.

87 ISRAEL WARRINER, son of Benjamin (18) and Mercy, twin brother of Jacob, was born May 19, 1742.* He married, July 10, 1766, Mara, or Molly, Hitchcock, or Mary Heaton.† Israel Warriner was selectman in Ludlow, Mass., seven years.

* The town record of Springfield says 1742; the record kept in the family has 1743.

† The Springfield books plainly say "Mary Heaton," both in record of intentions and record of marriage, the latter bearing date July 10, 1766. The family record says: "Israel Warriner, married, July 10, 1766, to Mary Hitchcock." She was probably daughter of Abner Hitchcock, of Ludlow. He was son of Ebenezer Hitchcock, of Springfield. Abner appears in Ludlow a few years later than his brother Joseph, who was one of the first settlers of that town. At a meeting in Ludlow, in March, 1774, the two brothers, Abner and Joseph Hitchcock, also the two brothers, Isaac and Israel Warriner, were present. The three last-named were elected to office.

The descendants of Israel Warriner claim that his wife's name was Mary Hitchcock, and that in her later days she often talked of Ludlow. While it seems best to accept this version, the records in Springfield are a puzzle hard to solve. There are no Heaton marriages in Springfield records except Mary's. No death of Heaton is recorded. Savage, Gen. Dic., has Nathaniel Heaton, of Dedham, freeman, 1761. By his wife Mary he had Sarah, James (25 March, 1690) and Abigail — perhaps others earlier. Nathaniel, New Haven (perhaps son or brother of James), proprietor 1685.

Isabel Hitchcock, daughter of Caleb Hitchcock, married Jonathan Heaton, Apr. 26, 1777. Was he brother of Mary Heaton?

He moved thence to Oneida county, N. Y., thence to Adams Center, in the same State, where he died March 26, 1810. He is buried there. Molly Hitchcock Warriner was born June 5, 1748; died in Adams Center, N. Y., Jan. 15, 1834.

88 Isaac Warriner, son of Benjamin (18) and Mercy, was born in Springfield, Mass., Aug. 28, 1745; married Lydia Fury, of Wilbraham, in 1767. Banns were recorded Apr. 11 of that year. He lived in Ludlow for some time after 1771.*

He made his will March 11, 1803, and bequeathed to his wife, Lydia, his entire estate, real and personal. Nevertheless small sums were given to his two sons, Jacob and Justin, and to his daughters, namely Sally, wife of Joseph Hatfield, Rachel Warriner, and Chloe, wife of John Collins. His wife refused to execute the trust as executrix, and the court appointed Edward Pynchon administrator. Amount to be divided among creditors was $145.93.

Isaac Warriner died three days after making his will, on March 14, 1803, and his widow, Lydia, died on July 25, 1815, in her 72d year.

David Warriner made his will in Wilbraham, Jan. 4, 1783. He gave to David, his eldest son, a farm at Stony Creek, etc.; to his son Jonathan, lands at Cowper's Meadow Bridge, etc.; to his "only daughter, Peggy, . . . land in the mountain . . . value of a good cow, a free lease of lower north room of dwelling, so long as she shall remain in an unmarried state." * This was the Rev. Wm. Rice, D. D., founder of the City Library of Springfield, Mass. He was a member of the committee to revise the Methodist Hymnal in 1876, and is widely known as an author. Among his published works are "The Pastor's Manual," and "Religous Quotations from the Poets." He was married in 1843 to Caroline Laura, daughter of Wm. North, of Lowell, Mass. Children: Wm. North Rice, Ph. D.,

Some of her descendants have a letter written by Amos Binney to Charles and David Warriner, asking how much they would take for the farm. The purchase was made, Mrs. Rice (Jerusha Warriner) giving her part of the sixty acres as a donation.

100 Samuel Warriner, son of Ebenezer (24) and Elizabeth, was born in Enfield, Conn., Nov. 19, 1719; married Martha Hale in 1748, record of intentions having been made on May 12. He was constable in 1765, also tithing man, school committeeman, and selectman at different times till 1774. He is frequently mentioned in the old records of Enfield.* He died in Enfield, Conn., Dec. 31, 1787, in his 68th year.

His widow, Martha Warriner, executed a lease to Horace Burt, of Long Meadow, the property leased being all the real estate formerly owned by her husband — two pieces of land in Enfield. The lease extended through her lifetime, and Mr. Burt was to provide for her a good and comfortable support, viz.: "good house room, fire wood, clothing and lodging, meat, drink, washing physick, and attendance both in sickness and in health, and in every way provide for her, the said Martha, every convenience of life during her life, and also to pay annually to Martha Bliss five dollars worth of provisions during the natural life of the said Martha Warriner."

110 Capt. James Warriner, son of James (32) and Anne, was born in Springfield, Mass., Sept. 2, 1723; married Miriam Parsons, Oct. 27, 1744. We find his name, James Warriner, Jr., among the selectmen of Wilbraham precinct in 1759. He was town clerk of Wilbraham, 1773-1778 and 1781-1785. He was the Capt, James Warriner who commanded the first soldiers from Wilbraham in the Revolutionary War. Roused by the news of the firing at Lexington, he led a company of militiamen to the defense of American liberty. In Stebbins' Centennial of Wilbraham may be found a roll of his company copied from the State rolls. To this roll the following statement is affixed: "Dec. 5, 1775. The persons above named living in the town of Wilbraham, who marched with their arms and ammunition, occasioned by Lexington fight, some before and some after me, who pray that they may have pay, agreeable to a late resolve of the Genll Court of this colony, agreeable to the services that are affixed to their names, which is the time of service affixed to each name in this Roll according to ye best of my knowledge.

Attest. JAMES WARRINER, Capt."

He, with a majority of his company, served ten days, for which he received two pounds seventeen shillings nine pence. The Revolutionary rolls in the office of the Secretary of State in Boston, Mass., contain a record of his service as captain, serving on the alarm of Apr. 19, 1775.

He made his will Dec. 2, 1791.* His death occurred June

* He bequeathed to his wife, Miriam, household furniture, wearing apparel, use and improvement of one-third of the farm, etc. To the two elder sons, James and Thomas, "in equal shares all my house lot or farm on which I dwell," etc., except partly to the other sons; to his "son Solomon the farm or lot on which he now dwells," etc.; to his son Stephen "land in Monson;" to his son Ethan, "part of house lot, 16 rods on north side," etc.; to his daughter Miriam, "Lot of land in sd Wilbraham on the east side of the mountain," etc.; to his daughter Amy Charlotte, land in Monson, etc.; to his two daughters, in equal shares, the use of one-third part of dwelling house while they remain single. almost unchanged in outward appearance. It was built of hard wood, and it took 70 men to raise it. The large chimney has been removed and blinds have been added. Henry Warriner (717), a grandson of Samuel Warriner, resides there at the present time (1898). In the History of Eastern Vermont, by Benjamin H. Hale, the name of Samuel Warriner appears signed to important papers relating to the formation of the State in 1777. He took strong ground in the controversy. In his own town he was a prominent man, holding the office of justice of the peace. At a town meeting in Brattleboro in 1778, he was chosen moderator, and he was coroner 1778-1780.* He was by occupation a farmer, and he was a deacon in the Congregational church. He died in Brattleboro, Vt., Sept. 25, 1808, aged 64, and his widow died July 4, 1830, aged 84. Their graves with headstones are in West Brattleboro.

251. Elizabeth, born Feb. 25, 1777; married, 1st, David White; 2d, S. Keep; 3d, S. King. It is believed that she died in Salt Lake City.
252. Nancy, born Dec. 16, 1779; married Daniel Melendy; died probably in Bainbridge, Vt.
253. William, born June 23, 1782.
254. Daniel, born Nov. 5, 1785.
255. Cynthia, born Feb. 10, 1789; married John Hadley. From her son, Judge Daniel B. Hadley, of Kansas City, Kan., we learn that she was a marked character among the early Methodists of Western New York. In 1815 she accompanied her husband as an early settler of a town named Elba, in Genesee county. An incident illustrates her conscientiousness and decision. Before she married John Hadley she made him promise not to play the violin for dancing parties. At a gathering where they were on one occasion, dancing was proposed and he was drawn into playing his fiddle, which had been sent for. She indignantly stepped up to the fiddle, flipped out the bridge, and the music stopped.

They moved from Elba, in 1822, to Batavia, thence, in 1828, to Bennington, twenty miles south, where they escaped fever and ague, which had tormented them from the time they first went to the new country.

She was a singer, and a remarkable exhorter, and greatly gifted in prayer. She gloried in the old-time Methodist camp meetings, and took an active part in them.

Their children all left home to seek their fortunes, save John Jones, who died Aug. 20, 1837, and Herman, who bought a part of the farm in 1840, and lived there till his death in 1852. Jones, as he was called, went to the seminary at Lima to fit himself for the Methodist ministry, but died as stated above. John Hadley and his wife sold out after Herman's death, and moved to Attica, N. Y., in 1855. They remained there till 1858, and then went to live with their son William in Williamsburgh, L. I. There they died. The date of her death is Feb. 11, 1865. They are buried in Cypress Hills Cemetery. Their daughter Chloe married the Rev. Mr. McKinstry in 1858, and died about 1891.

256. Pliny, twin brother of Cynthia, born Feb. 10, 1789. Probably he died unmarried.*

* Judge D. B. Hadley, of Kansas City, Kan., writes: "My parents often said Pliny visited them at Elba, Genesee county, N. Y., about 1818, and left there to go to Hamburgh to visit Dr. William Warriner, but never reached Hamburgh, and was never heard of by any of the family thereafter."

127 Deacon Noah Warriner, often called Lieutenant Noah Warriner, son of Moses (44) and Anne, was born in Wilbraham, then part of Springfield township, Mass., Oct. 27, 1748; married Grace Gregory. She died of small-pox in Wilbraham, July 14, 1778, in her 31st year. His second wife was Mary Ainsworth, of Providence, R. I. He signed the non-consumption pledge in 1774. In the Revolution he was sergeant in Capt. Paul Langdon's company, Col. Davidson's regiment. One pleasant day a company of young persons were on a visit to the house of Levi Bliss near the pond. I will give the names of the company: Mary Warriner (same person named Polly on tombstone), Abigail Merrick, Ascenath Bliss — all in their 16th year — also Guy Johnson, Leonard Bliss and Gordon Bliss. These six persons all went inti eternity together. A little circumstance — while taking tea at Mr. Bliss', Abigail Merrick, as was customary, turned up her cup to find her fortune. 'Oh!' says she, 'I'm going to be drowned.' The others made light of it. Soon all repaired to the pond and got aboard the boat and set sail. The pond was in the shape of a pair of spectacles. They steered for the nose, coming within six rods of it. A gust of wind came round the nose, took the sails, turned over and sank the boat, and there the six young persons perished together. Gordon Bliss, Leonard Bliss, Ascenath Bliss, brothers and sister, three from one family, in perfect health, were drowned at the same time. Comment on the parents' feelings is useless. 1798 was near the time of the disaster; it was in the month of April."

The inscription on her gravestone in the old cemetery in Wilbraham is as follows: "In memory of Miss Mary, Daughter Dr Noah and Mrs. Mary Warriner was drowned in the pond in Wilbraham, together with five others on the 29th day of April, 1799, in the 16th year of her age. Bost not thyself of tomorrow, for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth."

The Baldwins, particularly James and Edward, though reared in the midst of refinement and wealth, preferred the rougher life of the frontiersman, and spent many years in prospecting and conducting trains and droves of cattle across the plains to California. Edward Baldwin is distinguished as the first white discoverer of Yellowstone Park. He made his discoveries while on his way to meet his brother James W. Baldwin, who had taken a large train across the plains to Virginia City, Montana, for the Gold and Silver Mining Company of New York City. A printed memorial of J. W. Baldwin says that after his marriage to Miss Warriner, "the young couple came to St. Louis, Mo., and remained through the winter. During that time Mr. Baldwin bought a large lot of stock in Illinois, and early in the spring of 1854 started it across the plains. Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin took the steamer Mayflower, and met their train at St. Joseph, and then proceeded on the long journey over the plains. They wintered in Weber Valley, at the mouth of Weber Canon, and in the spring reached California. Here Mr. Baldwin disposed of his entire outfit, and in July of that year started back for the States. It was a wild, lonesome trip, but husband and wife had grown used to the rough life on the plains, and they reached the Missouri river safely in September, 1856. Mr. Baldwin died in 1884. Their children were named John, Frederick, Mary Ella, Harriet Ann and William James. The last is married and lives in the same house with his mother (1898). The others are dead.

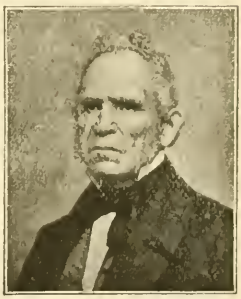
625 Col. Solomon Warriner, son of Solomon (228) and Mary, was born in Wilbraham, Mass., March 24, 1778. He married, on March 4, 1801, Eleanor Keep, sister to Rev. John Keep, of Oberlin, O. She died July 8, 1810, aged 33, and on July 4, 1811, he was married to Mary, daughter of Luke and Rachel Bliss, of Springfield. She died Jan. 2, 1859, aged 75. From 1815 to to 1820 Col. Warriner resided in Pittsfield. All the rest of his mature years his home was in Springfield, where he died June 14, 1860, aged 82. He ranks as one of the best remembered men of all the generations of Warriners. As farmer, merchant, postmaster, military officer, school visitor, chorister and musical composer, he held an honorable place in the esteem of his fellow citizens.



Col. Solomon Warriner.

On the morning after his death the following editorial, doubtless written by Dr. J. G. Holland, a personal friend of Mr. Warriner, appeared in the Springfield Republican: "Our venerable fellow citizen, Col. Solomon Warriner, died on Thursday, at the ripe age of 82 years — a man whose usefulness, modesty, honesty and Christian piety bring a community instead of a single family into the train of his mourners. No old man that has passed out of Springfield within our memory, and shut the gate of life behind him, has turned his face from more friends and fewer enemies. The old men associate his memory with their happiest days, and even the children, over whom his office placed him, will remember to their latest day his benevolent face. . . . His father was a farmer, and it was upon the farm he won the vigor which enabled him to work almost up to the day of his death.

"Very early in life he gave evidence of extraordinary musical powers. At even a tender age he used to sing the old-fashioned "alto" in the village church, and at 12 years of age he was drummer in the Wilbraham military company.

"He served his apprenticeship to a bookbinder in Worcester county, and came to Springfield in 1801, where he was first associated with Dr. Elam Bliss — dealing mostly in drugs and books. Two or three years later he engaged in general merchandise business with two or three others. Subsequently he was in business with his son Solomon, one store on the street, and one at the Upper Water Shops.

"Col. Warriner early manifested fondness for military life, and was chosen lieutenant in a military company about 1802. Subsequently he rose to the rank of colonel, which title he bore through his long life. In the War of 1812 a regiment of artillery, in which he held the rank of major, was ordered to Boston. Col. Edwards, of Northampton, was the commander of the regiment, but the drilling and management of the troops devolved very much upon Major Warriner, who was exceedingly popular with the men. Col. Warriner received from the government a land bounty proportioned to his rank at the time, under the act rewarding the volunteers of 1812. The old men speak with enthusiasm of his gracefulness as a mounted officer, and his fine appearance on field days.

"But that which has made Col. Warriner more widely known than anything else was his devotion to sacred music, and his agency in developing it in this region. He had the direction of the music in the old church of this city, then under the charge of Dr. Osgood, for a great many years, with one intermission. His business interests led him to Pittsfield in 1815, but after remaining there five years, the people of Springfield fairly bought him back. They could not get along without him. He was here in May, 1820, when the First Church was dedicated, and got up the music for that occasion. Col. Warriner took from his business sufficient time to become a somewhat noted compiler of music. The Springfield Collection was the name of a book of sacred music published by him in his younger days. After this, he was associated with the celebrated musician, Thomas Hastings, in the composition and publication of Musica Sacra — a first-class book of sacred music. He maintained a very pleasant correspondence with Dr. Hastings till his closing days. Col. Warriner was the first leader of the first musical society ever formed in Springfield — the old Handel and Haydn Society. Indeed, Col Warriner was the great authority and standard in all musical matters throughout this region, and did more than any other man to elevate the style of sacred music in Western Massachusetts. In the old church his choir numbered from 75 to 100, filled all the singing seats, and ran over.

" His later years were occupied in his garden, and as prudential committee of the city schools. His benevolent face has looked into the school rooms for the last time, and the little stragglers for whom he cared so conscientiously will play truant a good while before his place will be filled by one who will so thoroughly do his duty. The old man's memory

'Smells sweet and blossoms in the dust.' "

He led the choristers in singing Dr. Holland's hymn, " Thou who didst bless the garden land," at a famous national horse exhibition in Springfield in 1853. In 1886, at the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the founding of Springfield, the tunes were selected from Col. Warriner's publications. A memorial of him was printed in the history of the First Church.

He became a Presbyterian minister, lived in Michigan several years, did great good in organizing churches in southern Michigan and northern Indiana. It is said that he was the founder of nearly all the Presbyterian churches that existed in the State of Michigan up to 1840. He moved to White Pigeon in that State when the country thereabouts was partly inhabited by Indians. He was a trustee of White Pigeon Academy in 1837. In 1840, on account of a bronchial affection, he moved to Texas, being the second Presbyterian minister in Texas up to that time. He was for many years an active and successful agent of the American Bible Society, prosecuting his work all over southeastern Texas. His memory is cherished in that region. He was a ripe scholar, and a devoted Christian of pure and unostentatious life. "In San Augustine, Sabine, Rusk and Nacogdoches he labored long and successfully as a minister. His whole life was one of faithful service to Christ and His cause." He held slaves when in the south. His health was quite infirm after 1861, and he departed this life in Tyler, Texas, Nov. 3, 1879, and there he and his wife are honored by a memorial in the Presbyterian church.*

* The following is one of her poems which appeared in The Christian Advocate when she was about sixty years of age:

AUTUMN.

Fair Autumn! thou art lovely still;
For though the rolling year
Has changed the woodlands on the hill,
More gorgeous they appear.

The sky above is clear and bright,
As on a Summer's day;
The zephyrs blowing soft and light,
Make ripples on the bay.

O'er verdant pastures, fresh and fair,
My eyes are wandering;
And peaceful flocks are feeding there,
As in the balmy Spring.

But o'er remaining life, grim Death
Asserts his conquering power;
The leaves are falling in my path —
I tread on withered flowers.

But Death brings ripeness with decay,
Nor can we shed a tear,
As in our barns we stow away
The harvests of the year.

Autumnal days! ye bring to mind
The man whose death is nigh,
Who looks around him but to find
He's destined soon to die.

Mary Ann Warriner died on her 74th birthday, Aug. 15, 1894. She was laid to rest by the side of her husband in the ———— cemetery, in Rodman, N. Y.

He hears men say he's growing old;
  It seems but yesterday
That he was young, and strong and bold —
  'Tis all a mystery!

To him the clear melodious song
  Of birds rings forth as sweet
As when, a boy, he ran along
  With little, swift, bare feet,

The cow-path in the "pasture lot,"
  Or waded in the brooks,
And in his happiness forgot
  His errands and his books.

And yet he knows he's not the same;
  He has felt it many a day;
His vigor's gone, his tottering frame
  Is yielding to decay.

Great changes he has lived to see;
  "The trusted and the true"
Have gone to vast eternity,
  The land "beyond the blue."

Fading, though beautiful is earth!
  We seek a fairer home,
Where all things lovely have their birth,
  Amid perpetual bloom!

It is said that he sailed round the world. For two years afterward he worked on a farm in N. H. In 1849 he sailed for California in search of gold. Since that time his friends have never heard from him. Mrs. Baldwin, his sister, writes that he was a Methodist exhorter, and that report says he caused the conversion of the ship's crew at sea. In his last letter, dated Keene, N. H., Oct. 17, 1849, and addressed to all his brothers and sisters, he wrote: "I am now on my way to California, and before you will have read these pages I may be the most of the way there, or perhaps in the diggings, if luck be on my side. After his marriage he lived in Canaan, N. Y., till 1876,

"Dear Wife. — I am sorry to state that I am here a prisoner of war. We were taken on the 2d. James Denison and James Stanton are here also. Evan Jones is wounded and prisoner. There were two of our companies taken. We do not know where John Edwards is. She wore at school a wine-colored gown, made of woolen cloth which she had spun and woven herself. He counted that a good recommend. He writes: "We have passed through scenes which pen cannot describe. We have smoothed the dying pillow of the parents of both of us, and of all our children. We are childless, yet the Lord has spared us to one another, and we are trusting in Him whose blood cleanses from all sin."

Leaving the occupation of school teacher, he hired out as clerk in a grocery store, and later as commercial traveler, selling granite and marble, and afterward went into the stone cutting business. His residence (1898) is Sandy Creek, N. Y. He and his wife belong to the Presbyterian church.

914 Henry Augustus Warriner, M. D., son of Hezekiah (320) and Hannah, was born Sept. 21, 1824, in Hawley, Mass. In Yellow Springs, O., he married Fanny Swan. She died in less than a year after their marriage, and in May, 1865, he married Sarah Pope Shepard. He studied medicine and received his degree in a Cincinnati medical school, but never practiced, as he preferred teaching. So he went to Cambridge and studied a year with Agassiz at Harvard previous to taking a professorship in comparative anatomy at Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio. At the breaking out of the Civil War he gave up his chair and offered himself as a soldier, but his friends knew that he was capable of doing a greater service, and were gratified when he was induced to take the superintendency of the distribution of supplies in the western department of the Sanitary Commission. His health failed, and he had to abandon that work. After recruiting he edited a daily newspaper in Louisville, Ky., but the Union sentiment there was not strong enough to sustain it long. He was then appointed to write the history of the Sanitary Commission, but his health utterly failed before he had completed his task, and he died in Plymouth, Mass., Nov. 17, 1871. No children.

She died in 1874, in Bridgeport, Pa., and he was married to Esther Bolles, June 30, 1881. He prepared for college in a classical school in Springfield, boarding at home and crossing the river daily. He entered Yale University in 1850; was laid by a year on account of ill health; graduated at Union University in 1855; in the following year was admitted to the bar in Springfield, Mass.; practiced three years; health failed; went south; taught an academy in Washington, Ga.; during a period of enforced seclusion on account of the war studied the Bible systematically and determined to enter the ministry.

Since 1867, with the exception of two years when he was in charge of Christ Church, Philadelphia, he has been rector of St. Paul's Church, Montrose, Pa., and "has won enviable distinction for his literary attainments and pulpit ability." He has written several poetical works which show real talent. They deal largely with speculative and moral philosophies. His latest literary production is a prose volume, published in 1898, entitled: "The Gate Called Beautiful; an Institute of Christian Sociology." He is described in the Magazine of Poetry as "fond of athletic sports, . . . utterly without pretension, and though socially and professionally a successful man, yet seemingly indifferent to prominence or promotion."

sacrificed the college course. Resigning in March, 1864, he joined New York East Conference, and has preached without intermission up to this date, 1898, his appointments having been about equally divided between Connecticut and Long Island. He is the author of this work. He has written and published a large volume entitled, "Old Sands Street Methodist Episcopal Church of Brooklyn, N. Y.," and has in course of preparation a "Cyclopedia of Long Island Methodism."

[The subject of this sketch died in Stepney, Ct. His death came as a result of disease contracted while serving his country as chaplain in the Civil War — chronic diarrhœa, which developed cancer in the bowels. He was an indefatigable worker, and toiled on in his last illness, sometimes when in much pain. He was gratified to see the manuscript of this book ready for the printer before he passed away. He made friends everywhere and left an enviable record — "having served his generation by the will of God." Eaton & Mains, of New York, have published a volume entitled, "A Story of Life-long Consecration," memorial of Rev. Edwin Warriner, which they would send to any purchaser on receipt of 50 cents.

APPENDIX.

Concerning persons in America of the name Warriner, Warrener or Warinner, not known to be of New England stock.

Ralph Warrener, Pioneer Settler in Virginia, and His Two Children.

In a volume of records of the old county of Rappahannock, Va., which included the present counties of Essex and Richmond, is recorded the will of Ralph Warrener. The copy from which the extract was made is from old and frequently mutilated originals at the courthouse of Essex, and in this case it is believed that the copyist has run together the will of Ralph Warrener and the choice of a guardian for his son.

The will of Ralph Warrener gives his son, Ralph, his whole estate in "lands, chattles, hoggs and household stuff," he paying unto Mary Warrener

3000 lbs of good tobacco and six delivered to her when she attains the age of seventeen: Thos Gouldman [who was later a magistrate] to have the care of the estate during the children's minority, to keep said children, provide for them such education as to teach them to write and to teach "the girl to sow." [Then follows, written in the copy as if a part of the will, but evidently it is not]: "Know &c all men by these presents that I Ralph Warrener, of the age of sixteen years but under the age of one and twenty, son of Ralph Warrener of the county of Rappa. deceased hereby elect and choose

Thomas Gouldman of the aforesaid county, now resident upon my father's plantation my curator or guardian;" the 21 day of ———

RALPH WARRENER.

Recd Feb. 3, 1669"

Following is an abstract of the will of Ralph Warrener the younger, recorded in the books of Old Rappahannock [now Essex] county, Va.

"I Ralph Warrener, sick in body, but in perfect mind and memory, Desire to be buried at home near my father and mother. To Francis Freger my cow, squired at Col. Vassell's old plantation. My horse to Col. Dyer. All my tobacco to my guardian Thos. Gouldman he to lay out the same for my sister's particular use. To my sister three young black cows, a steer, one bull & two sows."

Dated March 7, 1673-4. Proved in Rappahannock May 31, 1674.

In the tax list of Lancaster Co., 1754, which then included Rappahannock, Ralph Warrener was assessed with three tithables.

Another Rappahannock county record is as follows:

"Samuel Thacher and wife Mary, only daughter and heir of Ralph Warrener, late of Essex, made due Rappahannock Co., Va. May 7, 1698."

The elder Ralph Warrener, mentioned above, was in all probability the "Ralfe Warriner" reported in Old Colony, Massachusetts, records in 1639, and not named in any subsequent records in New England, so far as ascertained. See page 16 of this volume. Tradition says he was brother of the New England forefather, William Warriner.

The foregoing extracts show that Ralph Warrener's only son died without issue, and the question is still unanswered, Who was the original ancestor of the Warriner's of Virginia?

Daniel Warrener, of Virginia.

The Henries Co., Va., records report Daniel Warrener defendant in a suit, 1721. Daniel Warrener was a freeholder and voted in Henries in 1751.

The Henries Co., Va., records contain a copy of a deed dated Oct., 1770, to John Warriner, of Henries.

David Warinner, of Virginia, and Some of His Descendants.

David Warinner is believed to have married Elizabeth Murphy, of Buckingham Co., Va. He had five sons, named David, William, Reuben, Thomas and James, and four daughters, Mary, Agnes, Elizabeth, and one other.

William Warinner, son of David, married Elizabeth Edwards, of Henries Co., Va. They had three children, namely: William M., John W. and Augusta. Only the first of these was living in 1895.

William M. Warinner, son of David, was born in Rappahannock Co., Va.; married Fannie Harris, of Powhattan Co., Va., and she died leaving two children, namely: Cornelia E., who married Wm. Grover, of Henries Co., Va., and Willie Patrick, who died young. After his first wife's death Wm. M. Warinner married Louisa W. Fussell, of Henries Co., Va. They had five children, namely: (1) John M., who married Lucy Glover, and is an undertaker in Fair Haven, Wash.; (2) Dr. Jairus E., who practices his profession in a place five miles from Richmond; (3) Mattie S., who married C. E. Nance, of Charles City, Va., and who died about 1888; (4) William F., druggist in Richmond; (5) Loula C., who married G. E. Dunkum, of 60 Duke street, Norfolk, Va.

Robert Warrener, of Virginia, Soldier.

R. A. Brock, secretary of the Southern Historical Society, looked up the following record:

"Warrener, Robert No. 667

100 a Warrant No. 5769

Robert Warrener is entitled to the proportion of land allowed a private of the Continental Line for three years service

Colonial Chamber
Dec. 10, 1809
JOHN TYLER."

"Warrant No. 5769 for 100 acres issued to Robert Warrener the 20th Dec. 1809, and delivered to Archibald Rutherford."

Mr. Brock wrote that he had no means of locating the residence of the soldier. Quite likely this man's pedigree could be traced. In a book entitled Ancient Windsor, a history of Windsor, Conn., is the following:

"John Rockwell married Sarah, daughter of James R. Ensign 6 May, 1651. He died and his widow married (2) Robert Warrener of Middletown, Ct., 2 Feb. 1674 — children."

The town clerk of Middletown writes that there is no such name in the town records, that is, no Robert Warrener. If Robert Warrener was of Middletown in 1674, he probably left soon afterwards, and perhaps went to Virginia. It is not unlikely that Robert Warrener who enlisted was a descendant of his.

JAMES WARINNER, OF VIRGINIA, AND SOME OF HIS DESCENDANTS.

This man's father was probably David Warinner, sketched in the foregoing pages, who had a son James; but of this identity we have no absolute proof. Robert D. Warriner, of Carterville, Mo., says the family came from England at an early day. James was born in Va., and was a young man at the close of the Revolution. He married Annie Pollard. They had four sons and two daughters, named respectively, James, Iverson, William, Elizabeth, Mary and Jacob, all born in Virginia. The elder James Warinner, of Va., accompanied by his son Jacob, emigrated to Kentucky in the early part of this century.

Jacob Warinner, youngest son of James, was born in Rockingham Co., Va., May 3, 1783. He married Mary Riffe, who was born in Md., May 13, 1790. Her father migrated to Ky. when she was quite young, and at Boone's Station she was tomahawked and left for dead. Jacob Warinner was a farmer and a preacher, first a Baptist and later connected with the Disciples or Christian Church. He moved from the frontier of Kentucky to the frontier of Missouri, and died in Ray Co., Mo., Sept. 12, 1845. His widow died Aug. 1, 1848. Both were buried in South Point, Mo. They had nine children that lived to maturity. Their names were Willis, Hiram, Eliza, William T., Robert D., Richard C., Sarah J., Mary F. and Nathan P. In 1894 Robert D., Sarah J., Mary F. and Nathan P. were yet alive.

Willis Warinner, son of Jacob, was the first of a family of six sons and three daughters. He was a merchant about forty years, and died in Memphis, Tenn.

Lee Harrison Warinner, eldest son of Willis, married Gussie Menefee in 1864, and two children were the result of this marriage, namely: Frank, who died in 1891, aged 26, and Jessie Lee, wife of a young Baptist minister in Kansas City, Mo.

Hiram C. Warriner, another son of Willis, is a lawyer of large practice in Memphis, Tenn.

A daughter of Willis Warinner, Mrs. Annie Warinner Smith, resides in Excelsior Springs, Mo.

Robert D. Warinner, of Carterville, Mo., a son of Jacob, was born in Casey Co., Ky., Sept. 16, 1819, and moved with his father to Ray Co., Mo., in 1837; married Mary Blain, Dec. 23, 1841. She died in 1891, and he was married again in 1892 to Lavinia J. Ball. His religious denomination is Christadelphian; his trade that of jeweler.

Samuel Warriner, of Buckingham, or Henries County, Virginia, and Some of His Descendants.

Samuel Warriner was born in Buckingham Co., Va., in 1767, and died in the same county in 1847. He was a farmer and a member of the Methodist church. His parents had eight children, and one authority states that they were all born in Henries Co., Va. Their names were: William, John, Isaac, Joseph, Joshua, Thomas, Samuel and Rebecca. These all died in Henries Co. except William, who died in Prince Edward county.

John Warriner, a son of Samuel, was born in Henries Co., Va., Apr. 8, 1801; married Mildred B. Rock, in Charles City, Va., and died in the same place, Nov. 25, 1866. His children were born in Henries county, and their names were as follows: Elizabeth W., who married Zack Pearman; Andrew T., who was born in 1832, married Belle Falcon, and is supposed to have died at Port Delaware in 1863; John William, a blacksmith and a Methodist, residing in Glendale, Va., who was born in 1837; Josiah C., who was born in 1839, and was killed at Welden, N. C., in 1864; Julia A., who was born in 1841, married Robert J. Warriner, and died in Henries Co., Va., in 1873.

The children of John William Warriner were all living in 1893. They are as follows:

(1) Josiah C. Warriner, who was born in Henries Co., Va., Sept. 8, 1867, and who married Mary E. Sned in 1892. Their daughter's name is Lannie. He is a Methodist, a drygoods clerk of 820 West Main street, Richmond, Va.

(2) Araella E. Warriner, of Glendale, Va., born 1869.

(3) Emma Turner Warriner, who was born in 1871, and who married Wm. J. Osborne, of Richmond, Va.

(4) Lelia Virginia Warriner, of Richmond, born 1878.

(5) John William Warriner, of Glendale, Va., who was born in 1880.

Joshua Warriner, a son of Samuel, was born in Henries Co., Va., in November, 1806. He was married, first, to Susan Smith, second to Fanny Tuqua, third to Susan Monson. By denomination, Baptist; by occupation, farmer.

Matthew Warrener, of Lincolnshire, Eng., and His Descendants in America.

(1) Matthew Warrener and his wife Mary Warrener.

(2) John Warrener, son of (1), who was born March 2, 1749, at St. Swithin's parish, Lincoln, Eng. He was a freeman of the city.

(3) Dr. Charles Warrener, son of (2) and Sarah (Metham) Warrener, was born Nov. 2, 1775, at St. Peters, at Arches, Lincoln, Eng. He was a well educated man, a physician and surgeon, and is said to have served in the English royal navy. He was married at Penn, Buckinghamshire, Eng., about 1811, to Shelome Morton. Of this marriage there were three children, all born at Penn, namely; Sally, Charles Metham and John Metham. He left England with his daughter a few months before the birth of the youngest child, staid in Ireland about one year, then came to the United States and purchased 160 acres of land in March, 1818, and afterward 80 acres adjoining. This land is in what is now (1898) Ames township, Athens Co., O. He was very successful in his profession here, and invested a considerable sum in the U. S. bank, all of which was lost. He died Feb. 17, 1851, and in accordance with his request, was buried in an "Indian Mound" on the farm.

(4) John Metham Warrener, son of Dr. Charles (3) and Shelome (Morton) Warrener, was born at Penn, Buckinghamshire, Eng., July 3, 1817. He was a carpenter and builder. He went to London, where, in 1844, he married Martha Verry, who was born in 1824. He visited the United States in 1858, and again with his wife in 1867 and 1878. He died in 1879. He was father of eight children: William John, Jane Mary, Charles Morton Verry, Emily Shalomy, Martha Maria, Samuel Verry, John Metham, Walter Thomas.

(5) Rev. William John Warrener, son of John Metham (4), was born in London, Aug. 23, 1845. He was well trained by his mother, who was a woman of unusual piety and intelligence. Experiencing conversion at the age of 19, he became an active member of a Congregational church, and soon began preaching in the open air in the northwest suburbs of the city of London. In 1869 he came to the United States, and settled about three miles from the city of Amesville, O., upon land bought in the early part of the century by his grandfather. He had been a carpenter in England, and came to America intending to spend the rest of his days in the pursuit of agriculture. But his mind had been trained to great activity, and he seems, though diligent as a farmer, to have been almost as laborious and successful as Elihu Burritt, "the learned blacksmith," in acquiring a liberal education. His school was what some one has called "the college of the small hours."

During the seven years of his farm life he accumulated an exceptionally large and choice library.

On Sept. 23, 1871, he was married to Miss Rosabell Kelley. They had been associated as teachers in the same Sunday school in London

Mr. Warrener united with the Christian church in 1876. He entered at once upon the active work of the ministry, and has served almost continuously as secretary of the Conference and Assembly of which he is a member. His work as an organizer and revivalist has borne large fruit in several counties within easy reach of his home, and notably in his own neighborhood. In the summer of 1876 he began holding Sunday school and other religious services in his barn. From this beginning a church was organized, and the society now own a fine building known as Mound Hill Church. It is built on an elevation overlooking the Federal valley. Four acres of land have been deeded to it from the Warrener estate.

The Rev. Wm. J. Warrener excels as a pulpit orator and as a writer. In controversy he is remarkably able, and "his poems exhibit considerable constructive imagination and express pure and refined sentiment." L. W. H., to whose biography of Mr. Warrener we are indebted for the above facts, says further concerning him: "Besides being a poet, an orator, a singer and a versatile prose writer, he is something of an artist, having acquired a thorough mastery of the draughtsman's art, and having some considerable knowledge of colors. He has used this knowledge to good purpose in his Sunday school works, where his ready and versatile use of the crayon has been a source of delight to both old and young alike. Some way or other the subject of our sketch has never been able to keep entirely out of politics. In local affairs he has held several important elective offices, which have, however, come unsought. As a member of the Prohibition party he has been frequently called to take the stump, and has done effective work there. He was one year the Prohibition candidate for State senator, and had the satisfaction of running ahead of his ticket. Among his friends, Elder Warrener is known as a whole-souled, companionable gentleman, full of jokes and good stories, and ever ready to give and take in repartee. Above all he is a devout, consecrated Christian man, who feels that the greatest work he can engage in is to win souls to Christ."

OBITUARY.

The Rev. Edwin Warriner, author of this "History of the Warriner Family," died August 29, 1898, — a few days only after the completion of his manuscript, — and now lies buried beside his two little boys in the beautiful cemetery at Huntington, Long Island.

He was born in Ellisburg, Jefferson county, N. Y., January 19, 1839. His father, Solomon J. Warriner, was a farmer in a small way, and also a local preacher of the Methodist denomination. His mother was a child of Irish Roman Catholic parents — John Gillen, a British soldier, and Margaret Paterson, his wife, a lady of high birth. They are said to have been clandestinely married, and to have fled to Canada, and from thence to the United States. One of their children — afterwards the mother of Edwin Warriner — was adopted by an excellent Protestant family, and was named Mary Ann Clark. She was one of the saints of the earth, greatly respected for her talents, and especially as a writer of pious odes. Like the ancient prophetess, the mother of Samuel, she dedicated her son Edwin at his birth to the Christian ministry. This he deemed his first "call." His mother's longing and hope, thus expressed, became in his own breast a passionate aspiration. While yet a child he manifested great interest in theological books, and at the age of seven years, in connection with the Sunday school he attended, he began to write and speak on religious subjects. At fifteen, in accordance with a vote of his class, he received a written license to exhort, signed by his pastor, Rev. Ebenezer Arnold, and the next day he was called to lead a meeting in a school house. Thereafter many school houses, camp grounds and churches became the scenes of his ministrations as "The Boy Preacher."

In his fifteenth year he began teaching in public schools, and in this way, and by the unsolicited aid of a wealthy friend, he was enabled to acquire a classical education, after which he pursued a theological course of study at the Biblical Institute at Concord, New Hampshire — graduating therefrom in 1861. Immediately thereafter he began preaching at South Meriden, afterwards called Hanover.

When the Civil War began there were encamped there for some time a battery and a regiment of cavalry, and many of the soldiers attended the services of the young pastor. So attracted were they by what they called the "dashing style" of his oratory, they presented a petition to Governor Buckingham, earnestly requesting him to appoint Mr. Warriner chaplain of their regiment. This was readily granted and accepted, and in a few days thereafter the young chaplain was off with the troopers to the seat of war.

For three years he served in this capacity amid the exciting scenes of the war, endearing himself to the soldiers with ever increasing affection and respect by his faithful ministrations, when suddenly he was prostrated by the incurable malady which became the bane of his life all through the remaining years of his long ministry. Yet, despite his physical infirmity, — which seems to have deepened his devotions and increased his zeal — few in his calling have accomplished so great and useful a work.

He was a man of far more than ordinary intellectual abilities, spiritual intuitions and sympathies — albeit his discourses were exceedingly plain and practical. His literary tastes and abilities were also of an exceptionally high order. His book entitled "Old Sand Street Church" (Brooklyn, N. Y.), is a work of great merit and of special local and denominational interest. The "Zion's Herald" pronounced it to be unequaled in fullness and interest by any local church history in Methodism — excepting only the history of "City Road Chapel" of London, England. Besides the History of the Warriner Family he left behind several manuscripts of great value.

E. A. Warriner.
